

THIS IS WHAT HIGH-QUALITY INSTRUCTION LOOKS LIKE.

Instructional Supports

- ✔ Instructional Inventory. A focused third-party review of instructional strengths and weaknesses conducted through classroom observation.
- ✔ Learning Walks. A series of non-evaluative classroom visits that enable principals and teachers to reflect on learning strategies, student interaction with content, and student engagement.
- ✔ The MORE System. A framework for elevating instructional quality through training in classroom observation, ongoing data collection, and data-informed professional development for teachers.

All of SchoolWorks instructional supports are anchored in our research-based SchoolWorks Quality Criteria (SQC).

- ✔ Teacher Professional Development. Sessions for teachers include: Common Core Alignment, Behavioral Expectations, Structured and Supportive Learning Environments, Focused Instruction, Instructional Strategies, Participation and Engagement, Higher-Order Thinking, Assessment Strategies, and Feedback.

🔌 Start by taking inventory.

Understand your current state. If you have not had a school quality review recently, we recommend starting with an instructional inventory. This focused review will help identify your biggest levers of change.

❓ How is success measured?

Elevated use of effective practices is measured through classroom observation. But the most powerful takeaways for school teams are often: 1) the common understanding of instructional expectations; and 2) exposure to high-quality instruction-in-action.
